SHURLAND'S CASE.

The Commissioners Hear the Offi cer's Appeal.

The Commissioners, at their session yesterday afternoon, decided to hear the case of Policeman Shurland on appeal from the decision of the Police Trial Board, at 1 o'clock to-day. This is the unsavory and disgraceful affair out of which Shurland was tried for conduct unbecoming a poland be dismissed the force.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Cabill with his client, Shurland, appeared before the Commissiners. Mr. Cabill read his petition for a hearing, in which he states that the evidence in the case shows that Shurland acted under the directions of Lieutenaut Guy, and because Guy had informed Shurland and Maddox that he had consulted with the Major and Captain of the force about the means of procuring this evidence and the methods were approved. He said that Shurland had been in the army, and he exhibited several honorable discharges from the army. He also said that, being a private soldler in the United States army, knows nothing but to obey orders of his superiors. He can't investigate. For this reason he claimed Shurland had been selected. The house in question had become an eyesore of the neighborhood, and Major Dye ordered Lieutenant Guy to break up this place.

He said that there was no evidence to show that Shurland bad committed any act of impropriety, except the statement of the woman Molly Bruce. He added that the pressure brought to bear on the woman to testify against her will, was infamous. This man probably did wrong, but he was taught to believe that it was his duty to obey orders. Said Mr. Cahill, "This man may have done wrong, but the blame does not lie with him, and whatever disgrace or infamy this matter brought on the department should be laid at the door of the offi-At 1 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Cabill may have done wrong, but the blame does not lie with him, and whatever disgrace or infamy this matter brought on the department should be laid at the door of the officers who issued the order."

Commissioner Edmends asked Mr. Cahill the question: "Here is a man who says, 'I have committed a crime, but I was directed to do it by my superior officer;' what shall we do with such a man?"

Mr. Cahill said he didn't set this up as a conclusive defense, but he thought there was something in the police manual which said that the members of the force shall obey orders from their superior officers.

Commissioner West said that a private had the right to refuse to obey an order that involved the commission of a crime.

Mr. Cabill said that the man who issued the order should be dismissed, but that Shurland's punishment should not be that revere.

Shurland was allowed to make a state-ment. He said that he refused to obey this order of Lieutenant Guy's until Guy told him that three young girls had been rained in the house, and he (Guy) had seen the Major, and he (Shurland) was the man picked out to do the job. The Commis-sioners took the matter under considera-tion.

THE MONUMENT DEDICATION.

and it was developed that the Edmunds bill would have strong opposition because of the fact that it names no one, but gives the President the power to appoint any one. The truth is, the Democratic leaders, many of them, are not disposed to let the President down so easily as the Edmunds bill does from his position on the Fitz John Porter bill. They are determined that if a bill is to be passed at all it shall be one with Grant's name in it. Then the President will either be compelled to veto the bill, to be consistent with the Porter veto, or will have to back squarely down from his position on that measure. If he adopts the latter alternatives Grant retirement bill will be introduced in and passed by the Fortyninth Congress, along with a bill restoring 21. Said an old Senator to-day:

"I think the dedication should be deferred until near the time of the Presidential inauguration. The Monday or Tuesday prior to the inauguration would be the proper time. Thousands of people living at a distance want to attend both events. They are so far another however, that it will be introduced in and passed by the Fortyninth Congress, along with a bill restoring Fitz John Porter to rank and pay, and both will get Mr. Cleveland's signature. Some of the leading Democrats will therefore urge that the first retirement bill in which Grant is named shall be passed on the first suspension of the rules day, which is the first Monday of February, and thus put President Arthur to the test. Reenblicans say that if this be done the President will allow the bill to become a law without his signature.—Washington Disputch to this morning's Philadelphia Times.

MOODY'S TALK.

A Large Gathering Hear the Great Evangelist.

MUCH EARNESTNESS SHOWN

A Sketch of This Morning's Meeting at the Congregational Church-The Preacher's Sermon On "Non-Church Goers"—His Appearance and Manner of Speaking - The Noonday Prayer Meeting.

People began to pour into the Congregational Church this morning before 0 o'clock. At 10 o'clock there was not a vacant seat in the building. People were standing up.
The galleries seemed to be as much in favor as the main floor. The people there were principally ladies. Most of the ladies were elderly, though young ones were on hand in large numbers.

But very few children were present. The male portion of the audience was for

But very few children were present. The male portion of the audience was for the most part composed of the middle-aged. The reporter did not notice more than a half dozen colored people in the vast crowd. Before the services commenced but very little, even of subdued conversation, was carried on. The audience was not apparently one gathered together out of curicalty, but were brought together by an earnestness of purpose. On the large platform were ministers and the choir.

The latter was under the lead of Mr. Wilson, of the Foundry M. E. Church. His strong voice and emphatic method of leadership were by no means unimportant elements of the services.

Mr. Moody looked over the vast congregation of faces as one well-accustomed to confront immense throngs of people. He looked around as if he was studying the faces of the crowd and mapping out his line of conducting the meeting.

He is not an impressive man at the first glance, but he grows upon one. He looks like a man who was at peace with all the world and thought that life was well worth the living. There is nothing of the ascetic about him. His jolly, fine face appears to bld all people to enjoy themselves and to look as much as possible on the bright side of things. He is not a tall man and his generous allowance of girth makes him to be even of shorter stature than he is. He has an off-hand, informal way that compels a listener to regard him as one of the congregation, not as a great leader to be feared and held in awe. His gestures are simple. His voice is rich. He has no trick of the elecutionist, but the way m which he regulates his tones and throws so much earnestness into what he says by far surpasses any tricks of elecution.

He managed to-day, while he was the guiding spirit of all that was done, to give the audience the impression that he was simply one of these who were holding a meeting and who enjoyed it jest as much as anyone present. In the singing he has a way of saying: "Now sing that verse again. All on the main floor will sing this time." T that again. This time let the galleries aing it." And the galleries make the old church ring.

Nobody thinks of refraining from singing when Mr. Moody says "Sing!" The audience is attentive—at times it seems to be painfully attentive. There are old-fashloned worshipers there too. When there is praying, ejaculations of "Amen!" "God be praised!" "Thank the Lord!" can be heard throughout the church. They are not lond ejaculations, but they are very distinct. The whole mass is perfectly homogeneous and is made so by a man who does not seem to try to do anything at all with them.

who does not seem to try
all with them.

In that, perhaps, as much as in anything clse, rests his wonderful influence over human nature. From 10 o'clock this morning to 11 the discussion was upon
"How to Reach Non-Church-Goers." The sung. Dr. Bullock, formerly chaplain of the Senate, prayed earnestly. Dr. Cox, of the Southern Methodist Church, read an appropriate chapter from Romans. An old lady, who sat near the research. lady, who sat near the reporter, was so wrapt up in what was going on that she seemed to be in another and a better world than this.

The subject of discussion this morning was "How to Reach Non-Church-Goers," Mr. Moody, on beginning his remarks, said that he would not speak about churches that have star preachers. He thought that non-church-goers should be made to feel at home in the church. The Sabbath is not the best day to preach the Gospel. There was not apt to be much conversion on the Sabbath. The speaker thought Saturday the best day for the preaching of the Gospel. More use should be made of song.

The choir should sing half an hour before preaching commenced. They should sing so as to be understood. "For the choir to sing in an unknown tongue," exclaimed the speaker with good-natured, sarcastic unction, "is an abomination."

"I would have a church, "he continued, "where the elders act as I do. Let every person have something to do."

A great objection to the churches is that workingmen cannot come; they are

A great objection to the churches is that workingmen cannot come; they are not made to feel at home. This is true of England as well as our own country. In Manchester and Birmingham 50 per cent. In Manchester and Birmingham 50 per cent, and he had heard it placed at 95 per cent.

"There is a great gulf between the workingman and the Church."

Mr. Moody here interpolated the first of those anecdotes with which he is wont to dayor his remarks.

A stranger found his way into the pew of a church-member, who showed signs of displeasure at the invasion. The stranger wrote on a card, "What rent do you pay for this pew ?"
"Seventy-five dollars," wrote the pew-

"Seventy-five dollars," wrote the paw-owner in reply, "Well, it's a good pew, and it's worth it," again wrote the stranger. This breeze of anecdotes drove a ripple of laughter over the great sea of faces, and Mr. Moody continued in praise of the Church of England, which sends out its members after non-church-goers. Another point upon which he laid par-ticular emphasis was that sermons should be short. They should not last over an hour, and half an hour was often long enough. The speaker here again broke into anecdote in order to illustrate his point.

He told of the minister who preached until everybedy left the church, and when remonstrated with said that he thought it was a sin to stop preaching while there was anyone to listen to him. Again the ripple of laughter sitred the sea of faces. Another appeal for short sermons followed, and then the speaker dwelt upon the want of attractiveness at church-services, and urged the desirability of lay-preaching in order to seeme freshness and variety.

Mr. Moody's delivery is every bit as rapid as that of Senator Plumb, and lacks the gesticular ornamentation of Hammond, whose mammoth meetings here several years age formed a memorable event in the religious world of Washington. With one arm akimbo and very few gestures he delivers himself with a flawless, colloquial rapidity that is astonishing. He has a round, well-shaped head, held aloft by a very substantial neck, and punctuates his pleasantries by a good-natured twinkle of his deep-set eyes which is very taking. His remarks were followed by the hyun "Wonderful Words of Love," sung by the remarks were followed by the hymn "Wonderful Words of Love," sing by the congregation.

Remarks were then made on the same topic by the Reval Bartlett, Faunce, Buttler and Edwards. During the discussion a gentleman in the audience arose and commenced to give his ideas as to how meetings should be conducted, when he was interrupted by Mr. Moody, who stated that his words were not audible to the remote parts of the church and to the galleries. He sat down with a fervent but indistinguishable flow of words falling from his lips.

Mr. Moody closed the discussion by impressing the points already made upon the audience, and theu followed another hymn and prayer by Mr. Moody.

When the doors were reopened at 11 o'clock many persons, who had stood on the entside for an hour or more with admission tickets for this particular service, came in Blahop E. G. Andrews opened the services, taking for his subject, "How to promote spiritual life in the churches," Bishop Andrews spoke only about ten minutes, but his remarks were to the point and were the cause of frequent "Amous."

After a beautiful hymn and a short prayer, Mr. Moody advanced to the front and said that "The very cream of spiritual life is to bring others to Jesus." He did not like the border Christian. He was too near the world to bring others to Jesus. There are a good many Christians who never bring forth any ripe fruit, because they are too cold and indifferent about God.

If you want real comfort you must get away from the world. He said he did not

If you want real comfort you must get away from the world. He said he did not fear the infalet half so much as he did the formal, Inkeworm Christian. He prayed God to give spiritual life, spiritual power. He wanted his hearers to got closer to the fountain of God. It is not hard to work for God if one loves Him.

A prayer and the singing of the hymn, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," closed the 11 o'clock meeting. Mr. Moody announced that a prayer-meeting would be held from 12 to 12:30, and said those who might choose could leave during the singing. Only one or two left.

The prayer-meeting was opened by the

The prayer-meeting was opened by the Rev. F. D. Power in a prayer of great force. Mr. Moody read the 33d chapter of Ezekiel and proceeded to speak upon the subject of prayer.

"Glod," he said, "likes to answer prayer and will answer when we come into his presence with the right kind of a heart. If there was ever a man who knew how to pray it was Moses. Moses would pray like a child pleading for its mother. Because our prayers are not answered in an hour, a day or a month, we should not get discouraged. It was 1,500 years before Moses prayer was answered.

"We get victory at the cross," said Mr. Moedy, "but don't go with heads down. If all your prayers are not answered, try again and again. There is something in your lives which God wants brought to light."

At the conclusion of Mr. Moody's re-

At the conclusion of Mr. Moody's remarks the congregation kneit in prayer for a minister whe was detained at home on account of sickness. Another sacred song and a prayer ended, what everyone conceded, was a most anspicious and fruitful opening day for the great evangelist.

Upon the platform were scaled: Rev. Dr. Bartlett, Revs. N. R. Naylor, Job M. Price, W. L. McKenney, J. S. Childs, S. K. Cox, J. P. Butler, D. W. Faunce, S. H. Greene, E. D. Huntley, N. T. Wheeler, J. #### SENATE.

A unmber of memorials, protesting against the ratification of the Spanish treaty, were submitted to the Senate today. Among them was one by Senator Cameron (Pa.), from members of tobacco unions in Pennsylvania,

This memorial was accompanied by a resolution declaring the pending treaty to be unjust and unequal in its terms, and predicting that its ratification would throw out of employment in the United States a greater number of pertons than there are inhabitants in the provinces to which the treaty angles.

inhabitants in the provinces to which the treaty applies.

The memorials were all referred to the Committe on Foreign relations.

Scaator Hear, Mass., in submitting a petition praying for the repeal of the "Four-Year Tenure of Office act." hoped that the bill now pending before a Senate committee on the subject named, be acted upon during this session of Congress.

Mr. Frye, from the Committee on Commerce, reported favorably a bill establishing a post of entry at Mount Desert. Passed.

Mr. Blair, from the Committee on Pensions, reported unfavorably a bill to grant a pension to Mrs. Emma De Long, widow of the leader of the Jeannette Arctic Excedition, with a minority report favoring the granting of the pension. The reports were ordered printed.

Mr. Cobb (Ind.), from the Committee of Conference on the bill to declare forfeit the unearned lands of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, reported that the con-ference had been unable to agree. He stated that the point of disagreement was to what was known as the Morgan amend-ment, sending the case to the Court of Claims, and asked an expression of the views of the House, in order that the committee might be guided in their future conduct.

THE PROPER BILL. The House Military Affairs Com-mittee to Report the Grant Bill Passed by the Senate Last Spring.

By a vote of eight to two the House Committee on Military Affairs this morning directed that the original bill containing the name of General Grant for retirement should be called in the House at the first opportunity and pressed to passage. Those voting in the affirmative, were Messra, Rosecrans, Sloeum, Morgan, Woodford, Murray, Connelly, Bayue and Lyman, and those in the negative, Messra, Steele and Curcheon Cutcheon.

The negatives were in favor of the E4-munds bill which passed the Seuate this week.

The vote was reached by a motion made by Mr. Cutcheon that the bill providing for the retirement of General Pleasanton be called up from the Speaker's table and amended by striking out the name thereby leaving its provisions precisely the same as the Edmunds-Grant bill. That motion failed by a vote of 8 against, the proposition respecting original Grant bill wrs then pased upon by the

THE STRANG CASE.—An effort was made today by the House Committee on Navai Affairs to adopt a resolution directing an investigation into the causes which led to the death of Cadet Strang. The vote stood 5 to 5, and as none of the Members cared much whether there was an investigation the resolution failed.

CAUCUS CORRECTION.—A Member who took an active part in the Democratic caucus last night said to a Charle man to-day that there was not a resolution passed indorsing the determination of the majority of the appropriations Committee not to provide this year for the reconstruction of the Navy. The caucus heard Mr. Bandall explain why it was inadvisable to take steps in the direction until the next seesion of Congress and adjourned. Mr. Randall was sustained.

The Indian Appendix Tion Bild.—The In-next session of Congress and adjourned. Mr. Randall was sustained.

THE INDIAN APPROPRIATION BILL.—The Indian Appropriation bill was completed by the House Appropriations Committee to day and reported to the House. It appropriates $5, 664,135 for the Recal year ending June 30, 1886, as against the present appropriation, which is $5,859,402. The estimates for the year ending June 30, 1886, amounted to $7,859,407. The only new legication in the bill in the penalty of an imprisonment, of not loss than six months nor more than two years for introducing liquor into the Indian country, and a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $1,000.

At the Close of debate yeaterday Mr. Wilkins demanded the previous question on the McPherson Banking bill, pending which Mr. Mills Texas moved that the House adjourn. The motion was carried—year 130, nays, 112. While intis was in no sense a lost vote on the McPherson bill (many Mombers voting in the affirmative in order that a Democratic caucus might be held), it operates as a virtual defeat of that measure, as the special order is not a continuing order. Fending the amouncement of the vote, on motion of Mr. Randall (Ta) the House non-concurred in Sense amendments to the six mouths Naval appropriation bill, and Meeers. Randall, Holman and Long were appointed conferences.

Mr. Randall on Appropriations and Senator Cameron's Triumph. Mr. Randall, of the Appropriations Com-nittee, said to-day that his committee wa mittee, said to-day that his committee was fully up to its work and ready for business on the floor. The only reason that it has seemed to be backward is because it has not pushed matters. This is easily explained when it is known that the committee has given way to Mr. Reagan's Inter-State Commerce bill.

Mr. Randall also said that the canon choice of Senator Cameron for re-election was no surprise to him. He expected it, he said, and it could not have been otherwise. Senator Cameron's re-election had all along been assured.

THE NEW YORK FIGHT.

Evaris' Chances Said to Be Improv-

ALBANY, Jan. 16 .- Hiscock has withdrawn, adding eight more votes to Evarts, drawn, adding eight more votes to Evarts, and Morton's canvass has practically ended in disaster. The canvass has run so stiffly in the direction of Evarts to-day and this evening as to impress many with the possibility that his nomination may be made by seclamation. Histrough was greatly onhanced this evening by the formal and open declaration of three New York city members for him who had been counted by the Morton managers as theirs, and who had been, by the Evarts managers, placed in the doubtful list. These are Senator Gibbs and Assemblymen Rockefeller and Windolph. Their formal announcement for Evarts sent a chill through the Morton for Evarts sent a chill through the Morton camp, discouraging the most sanguine of its managers.

Recruiting for Evarts from the party all

Recruiting for Evarts from the party all over the State continues. Representative Republicans in various localities continue to arrive with their pockets full of Evarts petitions to the members. This sort of spentaneous and irrepressible influence is having a marked effect on members who still hold themselves among the doubtful. No such expression of the party's opinion has been had in Albany since the memorial struggle of 1881.

No such expression of the party's opinion has been had in Albany since the memorial struggle of 1881.

An Evarts canvass that is trustworthy gives the following figures: In the Assembly—Evarts, 36; Morton, 20; Hiscock, 6; Russell, 6; doubtfol, 5. In the Senate—Evarts, 10; Morton, 6; Russell, 2; Hiscock, 1. The union of the two houses thus shows: Evarts, 46; Morton, 26; Russell, 8; Hiscock, 7; doubtfol, 5. Leaving Hiscock's vote and Russell's and the doubtfols out of the question, therefore, Evarts has accordingly within one of enough to nominate in joint caucus. But it is certain that all of Hiscock's votes belong to Evarts. All of Russell's votes, except Speaker Erwin's, are also counted for Evarts.

The above canvass is made upon no guesswork nor any votes assigned to Evarts that are not reasonably certain to belong to him.

The Letter Written by Governor

RALKIGH, N. C., Jan. 16.—The letter by Governor Vance, referred to by General Sherman, is probably the one written from here September 22, 1884, to ex-Governor Swann, now dead. It speaks of the ill-success of the Southern armies, and expisina the apathy of the Southern people by asserting that the revolution had been one of the politicians, not of the people. It had been fought at first by the natural heroism of the young men, and was kept going by State and sectional pride; but he was of a hopeful disposition, and believed that General Lee, a great man, with the remnant of the best army on earth, might yet succeed.
